

Dual Credit Transferability Guide

This document was created to assist students and parents in planning and understanding the transferability of College of Southern Idaho Dual Enrollment credits. It is very important to understand that all credit transferability is dependent upon the acceptance of such credits by the institution to which the credits are being transferred. CSI cannot guarantee that credits will be accepted by any institution other than our own. That being said, CSI Dual Enrollment credits have experienced years of transferability ease in most instances. All students should contact their intended institution and verify information on their own, as policies and guidelines at individual schools can change at any time.

If a student intends to enroll in a college or university other than CSI, they will need to transfer their CSI credits, for evaluation, by requesting an official transcript. Students should wait until their final grades are posted before requesting official transcripts. Official CSI transcripts can be requested online at www.studentclearinghouse.org. There is a small fee for official transcripts which can vary depending on how quickly the transcripts are needed.

Students, who are planning to attend an Idaho public college or university, can visit <https://coursetransfer.idaho.gov/> to review valuable information about the transfer of credit across Idaho institutions. The Course Transfer website was developed by Idaho's public colleges and universities to help students plan the potential transfer of credits they have earned or intend to earn.

Below is a list of colleges and universities that typically will accept CSI Dual Enrollment credits. Please remember that an official CSI transcript must be sent directly to the institution to which the credits will be transferred. Credit transferability at all institutions is contingent upon the receiving institutions' transfer policy. Students may be asked to provide course descriptions for major specific coursework. Course descriptions can be found in the CSI College Catalog that is available online www.csi.edu/catalog.

*In addition to the specific institutions listed below, most Western U.S. public post-secondary institutions recognize Dual Enrollment credits.

- Arizona State University (AZ)
- Baylor University (TX)
- Brigham Young University (ID & UT)
- Brown University (RI)
- Cornell University (NY)
- Dartmouth College (NH)
- Georgia Technical University (GA)
- Harvard University (MA)
- Penn State – University of Pennsylvania (PA)
- Purdue University (IN)

- Stanford University (CA)
- University of Arizona (AZ)
- University of Oregon (OR)
- University of Nevada – Reno (NV)
- University of Nevada – Las Vegas (NV)

The Colleges and Universities listed below have had known issues, or additional requirements, related to transferability that may need to be considered:

- Babson College (MA)
- Columbia University (NY)
- Duke University (NC)
- Furman (SC)
- Georgetown University (DC)
- Princeton University (NJ)
- University of Puget Sound (WA)
- Whitman College (WA)
- University of Michigan (MI)
- University of Southern California (CA)
- Vanderbilt University (TN)
- Yale University (CT)

Please remember that all credit transferability is dependent upon the acceptance of such credits by the institution to which the credits are being transferred. If you encounter questions or issues with credit transferability, please contact the CSI Office of the Registrar at 208-732-6795.