April is Community College Month. In celebration we would like to spotlight some of our Golden Eagles!

What brought you to CSI?

I was retiring from the US Air Force after 20 years and was trying to find a school that would accept credits for my military experience, training and prior college credits so that I could finish my bachelor's degree. Because I live in Jackpot Nevada I needed to do classes remotely but knew I also needed some in classroom support and CSI checked all the boxes on this for me. The fact that I could also do work study at the Student Rec Center for additional financial assistance added a nice little cherry on top.

What do you enjoy or love about your experience at CSI?

I like that I am a part of a brand new bachelor's program because I feel my military experience not only benefits me but I bring a unique perspective to this program because my last 10 years in the military was spent establishing new training and education programs at national level agencies in Washington DC and at the local unit level. These training programs focused on creating a learning environment to embrace new and emerging tools as well as creating scenario and project based education experiences that grow understanding outside of the traditional book and quiz approach. The instructors have been very open to my suggestions and being an older non traditional student I've been able to help broaden the understanding of those younger students enrolled in the course as well. Being at the Rec Center has also allowed me to share my military experience and highlight options post school or even in conjunction with school that students can take advantage of and that military service opens so many doors and opportunities for those willing to serve. I was very proud when one of my fellow students came back and told me they had spoken to a recruiter about joining because of our conversations. Even though they didn't join it at least opened their eyes to other avenues that had not considered.

What brought you to CSI?

People tend to talk down on community colleges and I felt obligated to partake in that as well. I felt as if I went to community college, I wasn't doing enough because that is the way society portrayed it. Regardless of that, I ended up choosing CSI because it was a good financial option, close to home and it would allow me some time to decide on what I wanted to major in. Fast forward to now, I absolutely love CSI. Getting involved definitely makes the experience 10x better. It is a small community which allows you to build strong connections and network. I have discovered so much about myself and have gotten the opportunity to make unforgettable memories. I strongly recommend CSI to anybody interested in coming back to school or if you are about to graduate high school. Go Eagles!

What do you enjoy or love about your experience at CSI?

I enjoy how it is such a tight knit community. All the staff members are always going above and beyond to help you!
